

It is a well known fact that much of your house wiring can become resonant. Passing high power pulses of data creates many disruptive harmonics, affecting many if not most communications and reception. I am totally against BPL for that reason.